4. Guest Speaker Session: Substance Abuse - Detrimental Effects on Mental Health:

The guest speaker for the event, Dr. Anil Kumar, a renowned psychiatrist, delivered a compelling talk on the topic of Substance Abuse among Children and Its Detrimental Effects on Mental Health. Child Substance Abuse and the Negative Effects on Mental Health: Understanding the effects of substance misuse on children's mental health is essential at a time when they face unimaginable difficulties. The term "substance abuse" refers to the risky or harmful use of psychoactive substances, such as alcohol and illegal narcotics, which can result in dependency, addiction, and a variety of physical and mental health problems. Adolescents and teenagers are basically what we mean when we talk about children. The prevalence of substance misuse among children around the world is concerning. This troubling pattern may be influenced by elements including peer pressure, easy access to drugs and alcohol, and a desire to fit in. It is critical to address this issue right away because kids are starting to experiment with drugs at very young ages. Considering the negative impacts of substance misuse on children's mental health. Anxiety and sadness may be brought in by or made worse by substance addiction. The balance of neurotransmitters involved in mood regulation can get upset by the chemical changes in the brain brought by drugs or alcohol. Regular substance use can cause cognitive problems that undermine a child's capacity for clear thinking, good judgment, and academic success. Abuse of drugs or alcohol is strongly associated with a higher chance of acquiring mental illnesses such schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, and borderline personality disorder. As they frequently participate in risky behaviors that result in emotions of guilt and shame, children who abuse substances may experience low self-esteem and self-worth concerns. A child's isolation from their friends because of substance addiction might make them feel lonely and their mental health exacerbate.

Prevention and Intervention:

Prevention and Intervention: Combating teen substance addiction necessitates a multifaceted strategy. Communities, schools, and parents should promote healthy coping techniques and educate people about the dangers of substance usage. Children need solid support networks made up of family, friends, and adults who can help them steer clear of substance misuse and towards a better lifestyle choice. Early detection of substance addiction and skilled assistance are essential in avoiding long-term mental health problems. Promoting Free and Open Communication is crucial to foster an atmosphere where kids feel free to express their worries and difficulties without fear of being judged.

Conclusion

In conclusion, youth substance addiction is a serious problem that negatively impacts their mental health. Our common duty is to inform, encourage, and steer our youth away from the dangers of substance usage. They will be able to enjoy happier, healthier lives as a result, and our communities will have a better future.

The Alumni Association coordinators from different departments collected a total of Rs. 85250 and handed it over to the principal. The meeting concluded at 12.30 p.m. with the national anthem.

Talk on Important Precautions against the COVID-19 Pandemic

Summary of the talk

As we get together for our annual alumni meeting, it is important to recognize the difficult times the COVID-19 pandemic has put the world in. The talk starts with the important measures and duties we must do to safeguard our community and ourselves in this historic period.

Precautions and Preventive Measures

Above all, we must continue to be watchful and informed about the most recent health recommendations issued by reliable sources. To stop the virus from spreading, it is crucial to stay informed about the actions advised by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, the World Health Organization (WHO), and the local health department. Wearing a mask is one of the most important measures. Wearing a mask is a simple way to drastically decrease the virus's spread. I implore each of you to properly wear masks that protect your mouth and nose, particularly when you are in public or are engaging intimately with people. Hand washing is just as crucial. An efficient method of eliminating the virus and stopping its transmission is to regularly wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds, or use hand sanitizer that has at least 60% alcohol.

Social distance is still an essential behaviour. Even when we value our alumni get-togethers, we need to keep a safe distance from one another. Steer clear of congested areas and leave adequate room between people while interacting to lower the likelihood of transmission.

It's also crucial to practice respiratory etiquette. It is essential to cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or the inside of your elbow when you cough or sneeze. This is an easy step which can stop virus-containing respiratory droplets from spreading. Another crucial step is to regularly clean and disinfect surfaces that are touched often in our homes and offices. Maintaining a clean environment is essential in reducing the chance of transmission.

Finally, if you have symptoms, have come into touch with an infected person, or have travelled from a high-risk location, it is imperative that you adhere to quarantine and isolation protocols. Testing and isolation carried out as soon as possible can stop the virus from spreading.

We have an obligation to our community as well as to ourselves as a part of the system. We can safeguard our families, ourselves, and our fellow alumni by scrupulously following these safety measures.

Conclusion

The literature stresses how crucial it is to take preventative action during the COVID-19 pandemic. Important precautions include being aware of the situation, using masks, washing your hands frequently, keeping a social distance, using appropriate respiratory etiquette, disinfecting surfaces, and following isolation and quarantine guidelines. We have a duty to care for their fellow alumni and the community, making sure that they safeguard their friends, family, and self in this tough time. The annual alumni meeting address emphasizes the responsibilities and safety measures that are required at this momentous occasion.

Discussion on Future Initiatives

Attendees engaged in an open discussion regarding future projects and initiatives that the Alumni Association could undertake. Ideas such as scholarships for current students, mentorship programmes, and networking events were suggested and discussed at length.

Election of New Office Bearers

The tenure of the current office bearers was due to expire, prompting the election of new officials. Nominations were invited, and the election was conducted in a fair and transparent manner. The new office bearers were elected by a majority vote and duly announced.

Various suggestions and concerns were raised by the alumni present, including the need for improved communication and outreach to involve more alumni in future activities.

Vote of Thanks

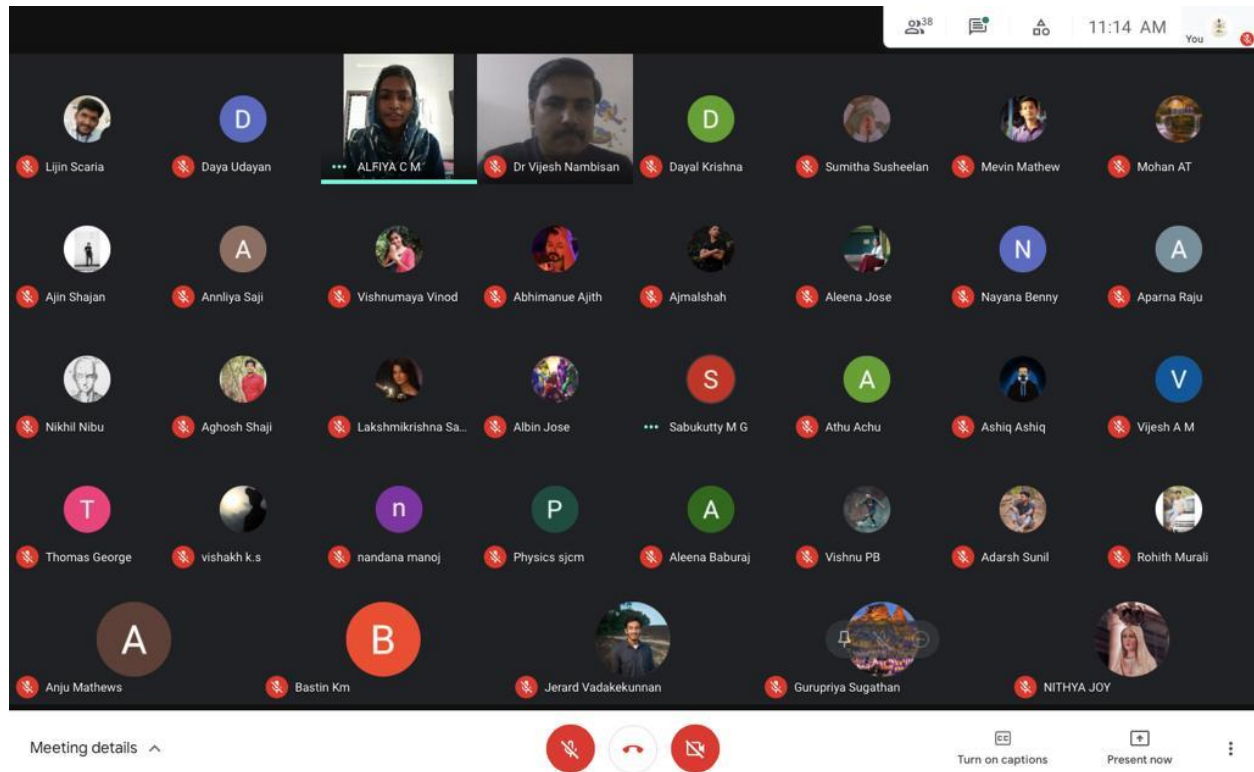

The Secretary expressed gratitude to all attendees, office bearers, and members for their active participation and support. Special thanks were extended to the college management and principal for their assistance in organizing the meeting. The Alumni Association coordinators from different departments collected a total of Rs. 76,850/- and handed it over to the principal. The meeting concluded at 1:45. p.m. with a vote of thanks. Summary of the talk on Disaster Management

We must seriously consider the difficulties and obligations involved in disaster management in our area.

Kerala is blessed with beautiful scenery, a wealth of biodiversity, and a lively culture. It is, however, also prone to a variety of natural catastrophes, including forest fires, landslides, earthquakes, cyclones, and even floods.

It involves an all-encompassing strategy that includes preparation, reaction, recovery, and mitigation.

Preparation: Our educational institutions, such as St. Joseph's College, can be crucial in teaching the public about potential threats and how to be ready for them.

When a crisis strikes, an immediate and efficient reaction can help preserve lives and lessen damage. Our alumni can help by volunteering, giving money, or offering their knowledge in fields like engineering, logistics, and the medical field.

Recovery entails repairing damaged infrastructure, reestablishing livelihoods, and offering emotional support to the impacted community. It's a stage that calls for endurance, fortitude, and dedication to reestablishing our localities.

As St. Joseph's College graduates, we have a specific obligation to set an exemplary example for others. Efforts at disaster preparedness, response, and recovery must be proactive. Let's use education to create a more resilient Kerala that can face the difficulties brought on by natural disasters.

I appreciate your time and attention and hope that our alumnus meeting's talks on this important subject will be helpful.
